

Karen Horney: A Bibliography of Her Writings

Compiled by Bernard J. Paris

Although they were not, strictly speaking, written by Karen Horney, I have included eleven pieces that appeared in The American Journal of Psychoanalysis in the 1950s and 1960s under the heading of "Karen Horney on Psychoanalytic Technique" and that were based on the lectures Horney gave on this topic at the American Institute for Psychoanalysis in 1946, 1950, 1951, and 1952. These pieces contain many observations about analytic technique that can be found nowhere else in Horney's writings, and they are often presented in what seem to be her words, as recorded in the notes of those attending her courses.

This listing contains approximately thirty previously unpublished essays, lectures, and talks by Horney that I discovered while I was doing research for Karen Horney: A Psychoanalyst's Search for Self-Understanding (Yale, 1994). These items have been included in The Therapeutic Process: Essays and Lectures (Yale, 1999) and The Unknown Karen Horney: Essays on Gender, Culture, and Psychoanalysis (Yale, 2000), which I have edited. I have noted the location of these items, and of other pieces collected in these volumes, as part of the bibliographic entries.
